

God grant with grace he us embrace

The eighth tune

Archbishop Matthew Parker (1504-1575), Psalm 67

Thomas Tallis (c.1505-1585)

Meane (part 1 of 4)

God grant with grace he us embrace, in gen - tle part bless he our heart, with thee al - ways the peo - ple praise, O God of bliss, as due it is the Earth shall bud his fruits so good, then thanks most due from it shall sue; and lov - ing face shine he in place, his mer - cies all on us to fall. That we thy way may peo - ple whole might thee ex - tol, from whom all thing they see to spring. All folk re - joice, lift God, ev'n he, our God most free, shall bless us aye, from day to day. So God our guide shall know all day, while we do sail this world so frail; thy health's re - ward is up your voice, for thou in sight shalt judge them right; thou shalt di - rect the bless us wide, with all in - crease, no time to cease; all folk there - by on nigh de - clared, as plain at eye all Gen - tiles spy. Let Gen - tiles' sect in Earth that be, to turn to thee. The Earth which lie his Name shall fear, and love him bear.
